INTRODUCTION

There has long been need for a comprehensive index to Chinese ceramic kiln sites. Many indices for ceramic studies exist, but some cover only one type, some are divided either by dynasty or province, while still others are exclusively in Chinese or exclusively in English. This index, in both Chinese and English, is divided into two sections. In one section the kiln sites are listed under glaze types and subdivided by dynasty and geographical location; in the other the main classification is by province and the kiln sites are again subdivided by dynasty. Both excavated kiln sites and those not yet discovered which are mentioned in literary sources are included. The references to reports of those excavated appear after the name of the kiln site.

In the first section some of the major traditional glaze types have been singled out for special attention. Under the heading "Celadon Glazes" are included celadon and Yüeh ware types. "Tz'ŭ-chou Type" refers to northern folk wares having a white ground with black, red, or brown decoration as well as those having a green- or blue-glaze ground with black decoration. By "Chün Ware Type" is meant the ware bearing an opalescent lavender blue, green or grey glaze.

At the end of the main index are maps locating the kiln sites (one for each dynasty), and an alphabetical guide to the whole. Where space permits kiln sites appearing in Chung-hua min-kuo ti-t'u chi 中華民國地圖集 are shown on the map followed by the name of the hsien in square brackets. Otherwise, the hsien capital must serve to locate the region of the site. Where the information is relevant, an alternate name of a city is included in parentheses. Finally, we supply a bibliography to the sources consulted. We are particularly indebted to Fêng Hsien-ming 馮先銘 for his compilation, "Hsin Chung-kuo t'ao-tz'ŭ k'ao-ku ti chu-yao shou-huo" 新中國陶瓷考古的主要收穫.
